

THE OFFICE

In front of you are the foundations of the LIMEWORKS OFFICE. It may also have served as a workers' rest area in foul weather conditions.

This type of building would have been built from a kit, widely available through an industrial equipment catalogue. These pictures show what it might have looked like.

See if you can locate where the stove would have been.

